

The Vendorin Network

Enable Your Trading Partner Network

When you activate your company's Vendorin Profile you're also enabling your very own trading partner network. Once active, you can begin using the Vendorin Network to establish links with customers and suppliers to exchange vital business information — the type of information you currently exchange manually by phone, fax and e-mail.

With an active profile linked to your trading partners across the Vendorin Network, you can say goodbye to the days of filling out information forms for customers and suppliers, the hassle of faxing, e-mailing, and calling trading partners to collect and update their information, and the frustration of fixing problems related to inadequate or inaccurate trading partner information.

With Vendorin, your trading partners maintain their own profile on the Vendorin Network taking you out of the business of collecting and managing their information. Because your trading partners manage their own profile — and behind the scenes Vendorin employs proprietary technology to validate the information — you'll gain newfound confidence in the information you are using to support important business activities.

Grow Your Trading Partner Network

Growing your trading partner network is easy. Simply identify one of your trading partners within the Vendorin Network, choose the sections of your profile you'd like to share with your trading partner, choose the sections of your trading partner's profile which you'd like to have access to, then Vendorin will do what's needed to obtain approval from your trading partner to connect your company's profile with your trading partner's profile.

When you're ready, we can rapidly accelerate the growth of your trading partner network by launching an integrated profile marketing campaign on your company's behalf. Our integrated profile marketing campaigns leverage a powerful combination of e-mail communications, professional telesales support, and an easy-to-use activation and profile linking Web site to connect you with all of your trading partners in weeks, not years.

Give it a Try, It's Free

Creating your Vendorin Profile and sharing it with your first couple of trading partners is free. Because it's free, there's no risk to activate your company's profile and begin experiencing all the benefits of the Vendorin Network for yourself.

We have created an online network where trading partners come together to share information — the type of information critical to conducting business in a digital economy. Companies simply identify a trading partner within the Vendorin Network, indicate that they would like to establish a link, and Vendorin makes it happen.
